SOUTHERN FOLLY EXPOSED .- The Richmond Whig of 15, cootains the following remarks on the folly wn by the South in their support of certain Presiden shown by the South in their support of certain Presidential candidates, and what they got by it:—

A conspicuous instance is that of Martin Van Burennow zeaicously supporting Buchanan—who managed by fair words to impose himself upon his Southern allies for a leag series of years, and to extort from them all manner of encomium and all manner of party reward. But notwithstanding his wity professions of regard for the South we soon found him, when he could no longer obtain office, cruelly abandoning his Southern allies, and standing as the Presidential candidate of a Northern facsion whose avowed object was to strike down the rights of the South and make us alaves and vassals to the North.
This cunning, hypocritical had man is again sitting, "check by lowl," with the Nouthern democracy upon the same platform, and is now declared to be, by a democratic organ here in Richmond, "an angel of light in comparison with a man who has given to the country one of the best and noblest administrations that ever adorned its annals; who soor not double dealing and practices only fair play; who has not one set of opinions for the North and another for the South, but who, with the frankness and boldness characteristic of an honest man and pure patriot, proclaims to the country men that, "if there be those, either North or South, who desire an administration of the North as against the North, these are not the men who should give their suffrages to" him.

Nor is Martin Van Buren the only prominent instance

Next comes General Cass, with his famous Nisholson letter, preaching the still more odious doctrine of squatter sovereignty, who was warmly sustained by the Southern democracy against General Taylor, a Southern man, and owning more negroes than poor old Gen. Cass ever saw. Yet General Cass was held up to us as all right, while General Taylor was denounced as altogether unreliable and unsound. General Cass, however, was defeated; and then the eyes of the Southern democracy were auddenly upened, and they themselves were compelled to admit that their defeated candidate had egrogicusly imposed upon and deceived them.

Having cast him saide as a rotten egg., they neft take up for the Presidency a small and unknown attorney from the granite hills of New Hampskine, who, in less than three months after his maguration, imparied vitabily to Northern abotitionism, and made it, by a profuse bestowal upon it of executive patronage, a mightly and formidable power in the land. Such was the course and policy of Gen. Pierce immediately after he assumed the office of President, though he was supported and elected upon the alleged ground of his setermined hostility to abolitionism in all its phases—while General Scott, a Virginian by birtin, by education, by association, and by a thousand endearing and sternal ties, was persecuted and hunted down by the Southern democratio predessors, turned out also, as we have indicated, to be a bad egg." and so his Southern supporters were reduced to the necessity of denouncing him and his free sed policy; and but for the reopening of the slavery question and the lateoduction of the Kansas Nebraska bill, not a democratic predessors, turned out also, as we have indicated, to be a bed egg." and so his Southern supporters were reduced to the necessity of denouncing him and his free sed policy; and but for the reopening of the slavery question and the lateoduction of the Kansas Nebraska bill, not a democratic predessors, turned out also, as we have indicated, to be a "bad egg." and so his Southern

MONEY MARKET.

FRIDAY, Oct. 17—6 P. M.

The stock market has lost its buoyancy. There were not near so many buyers at the beard to day, and the bears could not get out satisfactory contracts. The tendency of prices was downward at the opening this morning, and continued so to the close. Himois Central bonds declined M per cent; Reading, M; Michigas Bouthern, M; Cleveland and Pittsburg, M. Himois Central Railroad advanced M per cent; La Grosse and Milwaukie, 1; New York Central, Eric, Cleveland and Toledo and Reading were, as usual, the most active stocks on the list. The transactions fin cash twere to a moderate extent. The sudden improvement of yesterday has not been maintained. There was too much stock affect for such a rise to be suntained. The buyers were all in the street, and they were seen supplied. Wall street has no outside and they were seen supplied. Wall street has no outside support, and holders of stocks are daily getting weaker, both in their pockets and in confidence. There is no hope for half the railroad stocks on the list. There can be no permanent improvement in the bulk of our railroad stocks. They are now selling for more than they are them are piled up in blocks of thousands of shares in the trunks of brokers, and we do not see what probability there is of a better distribution. On the contrary, the accumulation is likely to be much greater. The effect of section and in largely depreciation in market value. Several railroad stocks which now command high prices in the market, which are sustained by the efforts of parties largely interested, will gradually settle down, like the Harlem, Hudson River, and many of settle down, like; the Harlem, Hudson River, and many of the New England companies. It is pretty certain that most of our high priced railroad stocks have seen their best days; that they will never again see such prices as have ruled, and that they are almost beyond any tempo-rary inflation from a speculative excitement. A very slight improvement in market value is seized upon by outsiders to realize, and the supply of stock in the street is, in this way continually increasing. While the few is, in this way continually increasing. While the few good railroad stocks are going out at advancing prices the many poor, worthless ones, are coming in at decreasing prices. The old must give place to the new, the weak to the strong, in railroads as well as in everything turn downward. New York Central Railroad fell off 34 per cent; Chicago and Rock Island, ¾; Michigan Centre Railroad, 34; Eric, 34; Cleveland and Toledo, 34; Roading, 34; Michigan Southern, 34. The market value o stocks cannot stand in the face of the downward pressure. With large supplies of stock, and most of the operators for holders to maintain their position. The steamship Arago, from this port for Seuthampton and Havre, to morrow, (Saturday,) will take out about six hundred thousand dollars in specie. This, with the shipment on Wednesday, will make an aggregate export this week of nearly one and a half million of dollars. The Sub Treasury shows a gain thus far, of about three hundred thousand dollars. About one million of dollars of this week's drain and half a mil-lion on last week's, will go towards offsetting the Califorthe same specie reserve in their next returns. The shipment by the Arago from this port to-morrow, and by the Cunard steamer from Bosion on Wednesday, will come out of the bank statement for the week ending the 25th inst., and the probability is that the specie reserve at that time will be a million less than that last reported cle payments by the Bank of France, must consider that but one of many steps has been taken to prevent such an event. That institution has made but one per cent ad-vance in the rate of interest, and the ruling rate at the latest date was six per cent, while in London it was five and a half, and at several piaces on the Continent seven and a half, eight and nine and a half per cent. Before the Bank of France suspends specie payments the rate of interest must be, from time to time, advanced, as a preventive measure, and when that fails the bank must fall There can be no voluntary suspension with the bank's vaults full of bullion. The next steamer, with later dates, terest by the Bank of France, and that will probably be for the present the extent of the financial convulsion.

with a safety to il'e, a regard to the interests of property and to despatch of freight, never before equalided in this country.

In consideration of this great good, the convenience of the engineer is not to be set against such a result. The role is strict and severe, but it is not tyrannical. The regimeer who obeys it in its aprit, will nover have a wheel off the track at a stopping place. A system of easy good nature, of lax responsibility, may be very liberal on the part of the company, and very pleasant to the engineers, but it is very dangerous to the lives of the passengers. We most distinctly assort that the government of a railroad should be as arbitrary as that of a man-of war, and that the employés should cultivate a feeling of duty and discipline, and pride themselves, not on the personal liberty they enjoy, but on their thorough discipline and devotion to the lives of passengers.

That engineer who was found in the ruins of his engine, after a collision for which he was not to blame, dead, with both has de locked arcuns the reversing lever, was a hero. That conductor who told us, a few days since, that in five years' experience on the road he had never had a wheel off the track, was a calm, prudent man, but neither of these were men to flinch from discipline, or to question any rule of the company calculated to increase their safety. The right spirit in an engineer requires a submission to discipline, and we should be unwilling to trust curselves in a train behind one of those unruly, ill governed spirits who have recently sought to force their employers to the abandonment of a salutary rule.

dences will soon leave in order to be on hand to cast their votes in the present Presidential canvass. The near trade however, continues good, and the city retail trade was never more lively, and our more fashionable Broadway stores are crowded daily with eager purchasers. The auction sales have been held on a reduced scale, and have been of less frequent occurrence. Among the list of failures recorded by the Independent, we notice that of Messrs. Freeman & Bright, and Otis & Co., of New York city. Besides these, a report prevailed that a cons silk house had also suspended. Among the failures referred to by the above paper we notice the names of Wm. Dwight, Jr. & Co., Chapin & Whiton, and A. J. Roberts, (millinery.) of Boston; E. Waters & Co., of Troy; George Turner & Co., and Nice & Bullock, of Phillidelphis, and J. M. Payne, of Lynchburg, Va. The other few failures belonged chiefly to Indiana and Illinois. The prices of goods generally have been well sustained, and some lines of staple articles are now as firm, or firmer, than they have been at any period of the season. The stocks of American staple goods left over, with a few ex ceptions, it is said, will not be large. As the importations have continued to be large, and in the face of the diminishing period of the season, the stock left over of this class of goods must necessarily prove to be large. The collections have continued to be good, and jobbers, as a general thing, appear to be under no pressure with regard to promptly meeting all maturing obligations. The advance both in cotton and wool, is likely to cause The advance both in cotton and wool, is likely to cause present prices of articles produced from them, not only to be maintained, but even to attain hereafter higher rates. The full extent of the falling off of the silk crop of Italy and some portions of the south of France, is not yet accurately known, and hence it is doubted by some whether the high prices which manufacturers and dealernow demand, can, under ordinary circumstances, be maintained. Certainly not, if the rates of interest remain as fixed by the Bank of France (six per cent) and the money market continues stringent. If, how v.r., on the contrary, should the Bank suspend specie payments, as anticipated by many persons, by the order of the government, which we may expect to bear by the next steamer, the movement would of course temporarily inflate the prices of all kinds of goods; in which silk goods would more or less participate the measure would also contribute to sustain the present high prices of stock held in his country. This measure, by stopping the heavy drain of specie which has been for some time going on from England to France, it is believed would relax the mency market there also, and induce an enhancement of prices, both of the funds and of manufactured goods. With this movement, the raw materials of cotton and wool, already high, would probably be stimulated to a bigher tension of prices. The export trade of the past week has been light, and chiefly to the West Indies and South America. Brown shiring continued dirm, with sales for export at ec., and for home use at 8½c. a 8½c. for under, were scarce and firm, while all the higher qualities were dull. We have said but little about this controversy, though we have read with attention the report of the directors and the reply of the engineers, and have listened to the remarks of the employe's of other roads.

We admit that the rule making engineers responsible for running off at a station where the train is to stop, although the accident should be caused by a mispincon switch, is stringent. But are defores it is condemned such a rule are not yet to be a station where it is not stop, although the accident should be caused by a mispincon switch, is stringent. FAMILY MARKETING. OPENING OF THE GAME SEASON.

The game season opens finely in the Washington Market, and gourmands can once more indulge in their favo-

During the past two weeks partridges, woodcock, snipe, plover and wild pigeon have become quite plentiful, while the poultry market is well attended, and prices have been considerably reduced, while the game itself has become improved in quantity.

Meat shows a slight reduction, due to the cold weather which preserves the meat, and it is to be hoped that spe-culation will not be so rife at the cattle market as it has been heretofore.

Vegetables present nothing new for comment. This is now the season when housewives are making their preserves, and very fine citron, grapes and plums are in the market for their accommodation. RETAIL PRICES. BEEF.

L. Great caution abould be observed in purchasing MES. SENGER'S LONDON CORDIAL GIN, and be sure it is Messenger's. A few unprincipled dealers are in the habit, when it is asked for, of substituting a wretched medicated compound purporting to be London Cordial Gin, and got at the little of the price of the signature of R. Market and purporting to be London Cordial Gin, and got at the little of the signature of R. Market and purporting to be London Cordial Gin, and got at the little of the signature of R. Market and the london Cordial Gin, and got at the little of the senting London Cordial Gin, now approved as the best by the medical faculty. None other is imported and sold by the bouls; and all parties claiming to import and sell such gin are swindlers and impositors.

In order to guard against imposition, country merchants should purchase only of wholesale druggists and grocers of character and standing.

MESSENGER'S LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold at wholesale by the following New York dealers, who always supply the trade at proprietor's prices:—
